

I am writing to encourage the FCC to not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law protections. We signed up for the "no-call" list in Indiana earlier this year and have been amazed at how much of a difference it has made in regards to the number of solicitious phone calls we receive. Prior to being added to this list, we were receiving about 3 calls per day. Now we receive about 1 every other week. This law has given our phone back to us. We had gotten to the place where we never answered our phone - we always let the answering machine pick it up to "screen" our calls. I feel that having phone solicitors continually calling our home is an invasion of privacy. Thank you.
